Also the following from Lord Lindsay: An affectionate regard for the memory of our forefathers is natural to the heart; it is an emotion totally distinct from pride. If the virtues of strangers be so attractive to us, how infinitely more so should be those of our own kindred. The family name undoubtedly came from Lowthorpe, a small parish in the Wapentake of Dickering, East Riding of Yorkshire, England. In and near this small parish lived the earliest known Lothrops, who seem to have spelled the name as pleased their individual fancy. The direct line of ancestry here given dates back to John Lowthroppe, 1545, as given on page 6, and his style of spelling seems to have been used by his son Robert and grandson Thomas, while his greatgrandson. Rev. John, the emigrant, changed it to Lothropp, and the next generation, (Samuel), brought it down to the simplest form Lothrop. This latter spelling was used by four succeeding generations, including Daniel Sr. while five of his sons changed it again to what we may term the American form Lathrop the balance retaining the old style. In this connection it will be noted that these records only include the direct line of ancestors from John to Daniel, making no attempt to cover the ancestral branches, being quite extensive and...
