

ON BURNING GROUND: A Son's Memoir

By Skakun, Michael

Saint Martin's Press, LLC, New York, NY, U.S.A., 1999. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: Fine. First U.S. Edition. 8vo - over 7¾" - 9¾" tall. ON BURNING GROUND is a tour de force--the dramatic account of one man's improbable efforts to survive the Holocaust. Fleeing the slaughter in his Polish hometown of Novogrudek (Navaredok), Joseph Skakun assumes a series of false identities--first as a Christian, then as a Muslim, and finally as a recruit of the Nazi SS--in order to stay alive in the vortex of hell. Constantly fearing exposure and death, Skakun lives to see the downfall of the most brutal horror of the modern age. Weaving philosophical meditations into his father's horrific wartime story, Michael Skakun offers a personal, yet epic, account of war and bloodshed, of unspeakable cruelty and unnameable crimes. Reflecting on the nature of guilt and the irreparable damage wrought by human brutality in its most naked form, this story is nothing less than that of the legacy of the post-Holocaust Jews and one son's attempt to claim the inheritance of suffering. New, unread copy, in fine, mylar-protected dust jacket. BIOS1.
